THE WORLD OF POLITICS.

Proceedings of the Prohibition Convention at Pittsburg.

GENERAL "BEN" BUTLER WILL RUN.

Comment on the Independent Conference—The German Vote—Political News and Gossip from all Points.

PITTSBURG, July 23.—The number of visitors to the city had grown so large by 9:30 this morning that ninety minutes before the time appointed for the prohibition home convention to order the chairman, St. John of Pittsburg, chairman of the committee, found it necessary to request delegates to leave the floor. This was immediately complied with without a second in the incident which was illustrative of the good feeling of all prohibitionists. Kindly feeling of aim were apparent everywhere.

Pennsylvania delegation had a caucus this morning and decided to present the name of Hon. John ... for presidential nomination, and stand by him until there was a possibility of him getting it.

The convention was called to order promptly at 11 o'clock, J. Stewart, and prayer was offered by Rev. A. A. Miner.

The call of the convention was then read and an address of welcome was delivered by C. L. Rose of Pittsburg. He described it as a very great honor to this city. Never did a party more justly claim support than this one. The demands of the party must be met without a prohibition party, the only political party that offered to the women of the nation equality with man in managing the affairs of the government. Every nation has, in the work of the convention and proceeds to choose a candidate for president and vice, whose labors have richly blessed the cause of prohibition.

THE OPENING ADDRESS.

John P. Stewart, chairman of the national committee, responded in behalf of the convention, and then delivered the opening address. The most prevalent and dangerous forms of dealing with the liquor question was that of "high license," or "local option." A national party, pledged to control of the government, declared for national prohibition by a party formed for that purpose. An attempt to reform the national conscience to abolish the ruling national crime by prohibitory laws and the constitutions of states is not to expect a revolution of the sea by stopping the little rivulets that turn its face.

Temporary organization was effected in the choice of J. A. Daniels of Maryland as chairman and Mrs. ... president of the Ohio Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and Charles Carter of ..., D. C., as secretary.

The secretary made a report of the number of delegates from various states (500 in all), and a committee on credentials was appointed.

The convention then, at 1:30, took a recess until 3.

AFTER RECESS.

A campaign piece was next recited on "The Ballot," with much effect by Miss Carrie ... of Baltimore.

After further delay the report of the committee on credentials was presented, showing 31 states represented, by 536 delegates, and that there are actually 401 delegates present. A resolution adopted the report, to the effect that "each delegation is authorized to cast the full vote of the state they represented. The report was adopted.

A resolution was adopted, after a hot debate. There was so much noise and disorder that it was suggested that they would become a disorderly convention before long.

The chair, amid much confusion and turmoil the committee was called, for the nomination of committee on permanent organization and on resolutions.

Resolutions, by a rising vote and with much enthusiasm, endorsed the views and principles expressed in the memorial of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union presented to-day. It was proposed, together with it a woman suffrage plank, but ... J. Stewart, the secretary of the motion was withdrawn.

The convention took a recess until 8 P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

The evening session opened by singing various temperance and campaign melodies and prayer by Rev. ... of New York.

Permanent organization was effected. Prof. Samuel Dickie of Michigan is president and there is a large list of vice presidents.

The report adopted, and a committee was appointed to conduct Mr. Dickey to the chair. In taking the chair he expressed appreciation of the high honor conferred. The party had been working not for victory. They were not in harmony with those who would make a treaty with or license the liquor traffic. They could not let it be done, and advised that it ought to be suppressed. There was no hope to be placed in the present parties. This prohibition party stood committed to arrest independent political action. The question was to found and to build up from its ranks an intelligent body of voters, who pledged would be the complete suppression of the traffic. To this work they were pledged, and this work they expected to stand. With the aid of the general government in their hands it would be wisely, and the nation would be saved from the ruinous rum power.

The convention then adopted the two thirds rule for nomination of president, and the majority rule was rejected.

The states was then called for the nomination of a member from each state for the committee on resolutions, and two members for the national committee.

Propositions were submitted and referred to the committee on resolutions, among them one to add the basis of representation at the next national convention, two for each congressional district, and four for each state and another to change the party's name.

The convention then adjourned till 9 to-morrow.

IT LOOKS LIKE A JOB.

PITTSBURG, July 23.—[Special.]—Commissioner ..., Price returned to this city to-day, Speaking of the prohibition convention in that city Mr. Price said that the prohibitionists were going to nominate, and he thought they would nominate a man. He appeared to believe the ticket they would nominate would be elected. He said it would be him that every third man ... expected to receive the nomination. Mr. Price thinks the convention has in view a plan to the democrats. He says the delegates there is democratic. The men in the talking are all democrats.

General Dudley, who went to Pittsburg some time ago also returned. It is understood that he had a conference yesterday with the prohibitionists on the propriety of placing a presidential ticket in the field.

Butler and his Probable Action.

BOSTON, July 23.—[Special.]—Butler recently said he will give some curious facts relating to the workings of the Chicago democratic convention. He will claim that he went there as delegate to voice the sentiments of the antimonopolists at their request, and that he did so in the belief that the convention was packed by delegates in the interest of Cleveland who had no ... anything looking like opposition. Butler further declared that Jim Blaine ... of his training, education ... his position in his party to aspire to the ..., but this man Cleveland is machine ... never tried a case in the court of appeals ... he can name all the foreign countries which we have diplomatic intercourse, ... to Washington couldn't find the White House or the treasury department without a ...

A NEW PARTY.

..., July 23.—[Special.]—The Leader says that the antimonopoly and greenback parties and democrats dissatisfied with the nomination of Cleveland are preparing to start a new boom for Butler, and they predict results in the organization of a party of such magnitude as to place him in the White House next spring. The project was kept up as soon as it became evident it would be proper to present Butler's name to the democratic convention, and was carefully hidden from sight.

A correspondent of the Chicago Express writes that General Butler was visited by a committee, and said, "Tell them to organize at once and prepare for conflict. They can trust me." Post office telegrams and letters are pouring in from every quarter, saying the democrats are disgusted and humiliated and ready to join the people's forces.

... another prominent western greenbacker said: "We had a conference with one of Butler's friends, and he told us we need have no fear. He frankly and confidentially Butler's friends said that Butler had the future new party at heart. He looked upon the democratic convention as ..."

BUTLER'S COURSE CONTINUES.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—General Butler's ... in the city, a great deal of speculative interest in his movements. Nobody can find out what he intends. ... but the leading belief is that he intends to run for the presidency on the antimonopoly or greenback ticket. In fact it is said that as he has already accepted the nominations he cannot do otherwise. Massachusetts democrats are understood to have offered him support for governor if he would ..., but he has made no response to overtures.

The Independent Conference.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—According to the Mail and Express accounts of the independent conference held yesterday, Carl Schurz received the greatest applause. According to the Mail and Express he was treated to an ovation. "No better illustration of the features and character of the gathering could be given. A typical crank was Dr. Edward ..., dressed like a farmer in his rustic garments, dilapidated black straw hat. He was also ..."

NEW YORK, July 23.—Members of the finance committee of the national committee of the independents are: ... of New York, Moses Williams of ..., Daniel Drake Smith of New Jersey, ... of Connecticut and Samuel ... of Pennsylvania. An executive committee was appointed, with power to add to their numbers, ... consists of the following: ... P. Butler, George W. Folsom, R. R. Bowker, ... George W. Green, Horace E. Deming, Herbert B. Turner, Moses W. ... Wood.

THE PRESS COMMENT.

NEW YORK, July 21.—[Special.]—The Sun makes reference to the independent conference: "With possibly rare exceptions the republicans who assembled yesterday are earnest and honest citizens. They wish to defeat the republican nominee, but adopting the best tactics to effect that object, ... dogma is, too much of a mutual admiration society, they speak of themselves as monopolizing the intelligence and virtue ..."

"The conference was a success, ... the most sanguine of its members and predicts that the movement will spread all over the country."

The Tribune says, "Its details were all carefully arranged beforehand, in the most approved machine style. Having devised a plan to exclude all persons who might make trouble in attempting discussion of the merits of presidential candidates the managers had selected officers and committees and provided a rule to refer all resolutions without debate."

The Times says: "The conference had no issue to evolve and therefore had little occasion for discussion. The issue with which it had to deal had been already made. Its single purpose was to declare its position unequivocally. This it did with absolute unanimity. There was no difference of opinion as to the object with which the delegates had met, or the means of promoting it."

The Democratic Chairmanship.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—[Special.]—Ex-Senators Barnum and Wallace and Senator Gorman of Maryland are regarded as the three principal candidates for the chairmanship of the national democratic committee. It is believed that if Governor Cleveland indicates his preference for Barnum he will be re-elected and inasmuch as Tilden's influence is paramount with Cleveland it is believed Barnum can, if he will accept, have the place. Barnum is reported to have said at Chicago that he did not want to have the chairmanship any longer. His health has been bad for several years and he assigned that as his reason for wishing to retire. With Barnum out of the way the chances are that ex-Senator Wallace will get the place. His services at Chicago for Cleveland entitle him to recognition, and the ex-senator is an excellent politician. Senator Gorman's connection with the congressional committee will probably act as a barrier to prevent his election as chairman of the national committee. It is believed that Fred. O. Prince of Boston will be re-elected secretary.

WALLACE'S CHANCES GOOD.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—[Special.]—The democratic national committee will meet in New York Thursday and appearances now indicate that there will not be any open contest over the election of chairman. Senator Gorman declares that he is not a candidate for the place and will not accept it if offered and all mention of his name in connection with the position has grown out of the officiousness of his friends. The general impression here is that Charles Wallace will be elected chairman without opposition. Nothing is really known as to Barnum's purposes but he has so explicitly declared his intention not to appear as a candidate that it is not thought his name will be earnestly presented at the meeting. The party managers are anxious to avoid any contest in organization of the committee and it is presumed for this reason that the wishes of the majority will be known before an attempt is made to organize, thus putting one candidate aim, y in the field.

Political Points.

THE GERMANS.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Special.]—"A man who sets down the Germans of Ohio or of any other state as favoring the highest license on liquor selling and violently opposing any candidate for office of either political party who does not favor the greatest latitude in regulating the liquor traffic is very much mistaken," said a democratic member of congress to your correspondent to-day. "I am pretty well acquainted with the Germans in my state and know how they feel on this subject. There are counties in Ohio in which a majority of the people are Germans, and there is less liquor selling in these counties than in others where the German element do not preponderate. I think the Germans in Ohio who have come over to our party during two or three years have come over to stay, but I don't take any stock in assertions that have been made to the effect that Blaine will encounter any very strong German opposition in Ohio because Maine is a prohibition state. The Germans are opposed to sumptuary legislation, but the man who says they will oppose Blaine simply because the state he comes from has seen fit to adopt prohibitory laws argues without reason."

In conversation with your correspondent to-day Judge Lawrence of Ohio first comptroller of the treasury who is as well informed on political matters in the west as any one, said: "I have no doubt Blaine will carry Ohio. This is a national election. If it were for state officers or members of the legislature, I would not be so sure of our success. But being a national election the liquor question will not either the one or the other, and the Germans who have opposed us on that ground will vote for their party."

OPPOSED BY THE RAILROADS.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—[Special.]—The great Pacific railroad corporations were successful at the last session of congress in resisting the passage of bills for the forfeiture of their land grants. To compel them to comply with the terms of the Thurman act many bills were reported favorably by committees and others were passed by one house but none have yet become a law, and the agents for these corporations in Washington have great hopes of being able to defeat in the senate next session bills that were passed by the house this summer. The corporations, it is understood, are opposing the nomination and election of such members as were particularly hostile to their interests in the present congress. It is reported that Representative Phil Thompson of Kentucky is having a close fight for renomination in his district and his friends say that he is being opposed by the influence of Huntington and the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad on account of the active part he took in the passage by the house of amendments to the Thurman sinking fund. The same fight is made against other members of the Pacific railroad committee who voted for the Thompson bill.

THE BROOKLYN YOUNG REPUBLICANS CLUB.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—The Tribune says of reports respecting the attitude of the Brooklyn Young Republicans Club and that its officers were actively participating in the deliberations of the independent conference: "The charge is not well founded. Of the present officers and members of the two governing committees only one has openly connected himself with the independents. Respecting the club's investigation of Blaine's record, it may be said it has dismissed the charges relating to the Union Pacific and the Northern Pacific transactions as entirely unsupported by the evidence, and restricted its summary to the Little Rock and Fort Smith charges. No conclusions have yet been reached. The testimony is summarized without comment and extracts from Blaine's speech in explanation of these transactions are appended. The design of the governing committees has been to compile evidence and enable the members of the clubs to judge for themselves whether it convicts or acquits Blaine."

FROM THE "STAR."

NEW YORK, July 23.—Special.]—John Kelly's organ, the Star, has been politically mute since the convention in the face of charges by the Times and other papers that Kelly was fixing up a bargain with other organizations. It gives utterance this morning as follows: "Many of our esteemed democratic exchanges have begun to ask, in a very imperative fashion, what Tammany is going to do? The journals which are now most anxious to know are those which before the convention exhausted the dictionary in Tammany's abuse. It is only natural that Tammany democrats should retire to remote seclusion, and meditate on their own iniquity, as pointed out to them by the pure and gifted spokesmen of the victorious machine. After being so summarily unloaded it would be the height of audacity to attempt to climb back into the wagon uninvited. When the weather grows cooler Tammany will meet in free council and determine its proper course."

MAHONE SPEAKS FOR BLAINE.

HARRISBURG, Va., July 23.—Special.]—A large and enthusiastic republican meeting to-day was addressed by Mahone and others. Mahone said the planks of the republican national platform are broad and strong enough to carry all upon it. The convention that nominated Blaine and Logan was composed of the representatives of this nation not only the capitalist but the mechanic, the artisan and the laborer. The natural demand of the voters of Virginia is for the protective tariff. The bowels of the state are overflooded with coal and iron, only awaiting the magic wand of the capitalists' gold and the honest laborer's pick. He pictured the future of the state under republican rule and declined to show what might happen under a change of administration, deeming such a proposition not only improbable, but impossible. He paid a glowing tribute to Blaine and Logan and called upon every readjuster or republican voter to be present to vote for them.

THE IMMORALITY CHARGES.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—[Special.]—The Times, independent Blaine paper, in ... to the Boston Evening Telegraph's three-column story about Cleveland's alleged immoralities denounces the growing tendency of the degraded partisan journals to assail the private character and morals of the highest candidates. It says, however, that the public acts of Cleveland and Blaine will be criticized in the contest. The people are well assured that both are men of stainless reputation in social life and that either would bring ... upon any ... as its chief magistrate. Blaine's abilities and success makes him a shining mark for the dead-shot shaft of malignant slanders, but he has lived by it ... can any act of his public character be stained by social defame.

LOGAN INTERVIEWED.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 21.—[Special.]—General Logan was asked to-day: "What do you think of Blaine's letter?"

"That is hardly a fair question. Of course I consider it very good."

"The tariff will be made the main issue of the campaign, will it not?"

"Certainly." The general here showed a sign of displeasure at being questioned closely.

"What do you think of the democratic nominee?" ventured the reporter.

"Now you are presuming on my good nature," he answered. "It would not be politic for me to say just now what my opinions are or are not."

THE MEXICAN TREATY.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Special.]—The Commercial Bulletin's Washington special says: There is scarcely any doubt that the Mexican treaty will go into operation before the end of the fiscal year notwithstanding the failure of congress at this session to give effect to the treaty. The bill for that purpose is on the house calendar, and was only delayed to avoid bringing the tobacco question before the house in advance of the presidential campaign. This is another instance of the subordination of the commercial interests of the country to party expediency on the eve of a presidential contest.

PATENT PLUMES.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—A Paterson silk manufacturer has taken out a patent for a process by which cotton and silk threads may be twisted about wires to produce the effect of ostrich feather or plume for ladies hats. He was stimulated to perfect his invention by the prospect of a demand for such millinery by followers of the "Plumed Knight." Curiously he is a democrat, and his principal backers are wealthy and influential democrats of Paterson.

BUTLER'S AND KELLY'S WAIL.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—It is stated that John Kelly as well as Butler, openly and vigorously denounce Manning and Carter Harrison for cracking the Chicago convention with Cleveland shouters. One of the two named is said to have asserted that the Manning machine men held out to Harrison an inducement to pack the hall, with the promise of the nomination for vice president, but they also promised the same thing to Miles M. Donald and Hendly to secure aid from them.

John Henry, president of the Anti-monopoly Association, said that if Butler runs as he had no doubt he would, a ... the workingmen and the greenback candidate Cleveland would be third man in the race in New York county, and possibly in the state. When, he added, he won't be first under any circumstances.

LEW WALLACE WILL TAKE THE STUMP.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, July 23.—[Special.]—General Lew Wallace who is here from Turkey on a four months leave of absence is preparing to take the stump for Blaine and Logan. He does not intend going out of his own state to speak. His long and friendly relations with Hendricks will render the work very trying. His taking active part against the democratic ticket is regarded as an indication that the contest will be close in Indiana. Wallace has the material for a new book ready but will shelve it until after the election.

A CAUTION.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—The Commercial, which has been advocating abstinence from personalities in the campaign, is so angered at the persistent reiteration of the Mulligan letter business by Blaine's adversaries that it cautions them this evening that it will be scarcely possible on much further provocation to keep a large body of Blaine supporters from grasping similar weapons. Should this happen the consequences may be exceedingly unpleasant. A word to the wise ought to be sufficient.

BLAINE AT BAR HARBOR.

BAR HARBOR, July 23.—[Special.]—Blaine is overrun with callers. He told a reporter: "I expect to be here all summer. I don't say that I shall not run off for a day or two." Mr. Blaine makes no remarks about his prospects. Still he says it is an odd thing to remain passive in a fight in which for many years he has been an active participant. To-day he received a large delegation of visitors from the hotels and many yachtsmen who are in the harbor.

MODEST EXPECTATIONS.

PITTSBURG, July 23.—[Special.]—The delegates from the different states do not claim an ability to carry a single state, but declare that the candidates nominated by the convention for the presidency will receive half a million votes, and that at the close of the canvass there will be all over the country a cohesive force organized to support temperance men and measures and that by 1888 they will sweep the country.

NOTES FROM THE "HERALD."

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—The Herald prints a long letter showing that Maine is a doubtful state and hinting that she may go democratic in the state election in September.

The Herald also publishes a special from Bloomington, Ills., saying that David Davis has come down off the fence and supports Blaine.

ALL SPECULATIONS WORTHLESS.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—[Special.]—Representative Jeffreys of Mississippi, who has just returned from New York, says that from all he could learn there he thinks the republicans have no reason to be discouraged at the situation. All speculations as to the outcome he says are worthless but he has hopes of gains in the south.

JOHN KELLY APPOINTED ELECTOR.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 23.—The democratic state committee met to-day. Tammany hall members of the committee were absent. John Kelly of New York was chosen elector at large in place of Pulitzer of the Fifth district, resigned.

A CHARGE AGAINST THE DEMOCRATS.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—The Tribune accuses the democrats of violating the law by making assessments on democratic office holders in Washington and publishes details.

FOREIGN DISPATCHES.

ENGLAND.

The Bricklayer's Victory.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—The bricklayers have won an early victory, and a multitude of workingmen would demand a reduction of their day's work to nine hours if they could obtain it as easily as did the masons. The Mail and Express thinks, however, that the contractors may take their turn in reducing next season, and offer only $3 60, where now they pay $4 a day for bricklayers.

The Proposed Purchase of Cuba by the United States.

THE G. A. R. REUNION AT MINNEAPOLIS.

Pauper Labor in Pennsylvania—Government Troops Repulsed by Indians—The Plans for Improving the Columbia.

The United States and Cuba.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—The Times contains additional particulars of the contemplated negotiations for the sale of Cuba to the United States and says editorially: "It is evident a diplomatic intrigue is in progress. There is nothing at all unlikely in the story that Spain would be willing to exchange for a round sum of money a possession which by misruling and misgovernment have rendered worse than worthless to her. The curious point is that nobody seems to inquire why the United States, the only possible purchaser, should consent to buy Cuba. It is natural enough that the Continuation of Blaine should revive all manner of hair brained schemes. There is, however, a deepening doubt whether Spain will ever have an opportunity to deal with a person of such liberal views as is presently of the United States."

A Times' Madrid dispatch says: The greatest interest is felt here, among all classes on the subject of the future of Cuba. Its financial and industrial condition could not be worse. The sugar crop this year will not pay expenses. Depreciation of values have been enormous. You can buy to-day the best sugar plantation in Cuba, which is not practically owned by New York or Philadelphia merchants, from $8 to $10 an acre. This includes an expensive plant for manufacturing sugar.

The South American Commission.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—A Commercial Bulletin Washington special says it is understood the commission appointed under the provisions of the consular and diplomatic bill to ascertain the best modes of securing more intimate international and commercial relations between the United States and the several countries of Central and South America, and to visit such countries in Central and South America as the president may direct has not received instructions yet but it is understood that before starting it will visit New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans to confer with merchants of those cities relative to the proposed commercial mission, and the important branches of the work to be done. "The visit to Mexico, Central and South America will not be made before autumn. Among the results of the commission's work will be the negotiation of several important commercial treaties. The members of the commission are General George H. Sharpe of New York, ex-Governor Reynolds of Missouri and Judge Solon ... of Kansas. Surprise is expressed that President Arthur has not put upon the commission direct representatives of mercantile interests.

The G. A. R. Reunion at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 23.—The grand parade was delayed in forming but is now in motion, and is received with tremendous cheers by 60 000 people who throng every street on the line of march. The weather is fair but sultry with threatening clouds gathering. The whole Grand Army is in line, the largest demonstration since the war.

After the parade a business meeting for organization will be held. Candidates for grand commander are Carnahan of Illinois, Warner of Missouri, Hurst of Ohio, Burst of Illinois and Anderson of Kansas. General Sherman is being urged but has declined to accept the honor. He can be nominated by acclamation if he desires it.

The parade is now passing city hall where children on a canopied platform are waving banners and singing old war songs, which the veterans take up as they pass on with uncovered heads. The blare of bands the waving of banners and the shouts of thousands from the streets, windows and house tops contribute to the inspiring scene. As the tattered battle flags are recognized by the old veterans a wild cry of delight goes up. The enthusiasm was never equaled here and this is the greatest of all demonstrations ever witnessed in the northwest.

Pauper Labor in Pennsylvania.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—The Post's leader says: The filthy habits of the so-called Hungarians in Pennsylvania have created so much disgust and inflamed public opinion to such a degree as to call attention to ... The ... rangers themselves ... that they ... advantage of ... ocean rates to return to their native land. The ... of ... have ... Jay ... calling for measures to drive out the filthy lazy plague-breeding set whom a further describes as living like pigs and as coming here to gobble up money that if rightly belongs to honest workmen and take it away with them which makes it look as if the very ... of the Mongolians. Because says the Post remedy the same objection urged against Hungarians is the case is urged against Mongolians in the Pacific coast. The Post of course more is the illiberality of the decent white laborers in wanting to protect themselves against filth and disease. Foreign paupers and vultures to inquire whether the white men of this country are prepared to establish a scale of leanliness which they will prescribe to foreigners coming here to settle.

The Postmasters Must Wait.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—[Special.]—Congress at the last session appropriated $4 ... to pay all allowances due postmasters under the act of ... providing for the readjustment of salaries. This money was simply sufficient to pay claims up to the end of the last fiscal year, but since that time allowances to the amount of $17 000 have been made and it is thought that before congress meets allowances to the amount of $7 500 000 altogether will have been granted. The postmaster general will report to congress in December the amount needed to pay the claims under the readjustment act, but it is doubtful if any money will be voted before the middle of next February. In the meantime postmasters and ex-postmasters who are entitled to extra compensation will have to wait for their money.

DURANGO, Colo., July 23.—Captain Perrins commanding a detachment of cavalry sent in pursuit of the Indians that made an outbreak on cattle camps a short time ago found the Indians entrenched in their stronghold about 100 miles west in the Blue mountains on the 15th. After a sharp fight he was compelled to retire with the loss of one scout named W. ... and James Higgins, a cowboy. ... 200 Indians well armed and they were so well protected by the bluffs that it was found impossible to dislodge them. Captain Perrins will probably await reinforcements before ... Indians ... attacks as it is only throwing the lives of his men away at the disadvantages he would have to fight the Indians.

Chinese in the Hawaiian Islands.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—[Special.]—A Press editorial says: The steady increase of the Chinese population in the Sandwich Islands threatens sooner or later, to confront our own government with problems of a delicate and difficult character. Hawaiian sugar admitted free under the reciprocity treaty is largely produced by Chinese labor, and consistency with the present restrictive laws against the Chinese may yet compel the United States either to abrogate the treaty or insist upon the exclusion of Mongolian workmen from the islands. The issue is one which the public of this country, particularly the people of the Pacific coast and the sugar planting region of the south, will be eager to force.

THE CHOLERA EPIDEMIC.

Active Steps Taken to Repel the Disease—The Situation in France.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—The continued depression in Wall street has been coupled with an Asiatic cholera scare by some gamblers who do not hesitate to attribute any unfavorable condition in the stock market to the latest sensation. Henry Clews said: "The prevalence of cholera abroad will affect this country but it will be only for good. There are American tourists in Europe who are spending money at the rate of $100 000 000 a year. Most of them will be frightened home, and they will spend their money here, and when foreigners observe the extraordinary and complete precautions being taken to keep contagious disease out of this country the wealthier classes will swarm over here and they will join our own returned tourists in distributing money among our people. The balance of foreign exchange will then be greatly in our favor, and good times will have come again."

A GENERAL QUARANTINE NECESSARY.

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Special.]—A Washington special says: Surgeon General Hamilton of the marine hospital service authorizes the statement that the importation of cholera depends on the existence of quarantine not only of American but of Mexican and Canadian ports. The latter country has not yet adopted necessary quarantine regulations but steps are being taken by our government to make the quarantine international with Canada and Mexico.

THE SANITARY CONFERENCE.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Health Officer Townsend received to-day a letter from John H. Rauch, secretary of the Illinois state board of health, suggesting that in view of the reappearance of cholera in Europe a session of the national sanitary conference would be timely and profitable. Health Officer Townsend concurs heartily in the views expressed therein.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

THEY COULDN'T STAND PROSPERITY.

CHEYENNE, Wy., July 23.—Publication of the Western Live Stock Journal was begun here last November by Mercer & Marney, two Texas men. They were without money when they started, but their paper was countenanced by the cattlemen and they claim to have made $8000 above running expenses in eight months. Lately the proprietors have had quarrels, each claims the other is trying to carry on the business in a high-handed way. Mercer discharged the book keeper, Marney's brother-in-law, and put in a friend of his own. This brought on a personal encounter during which Mercer's wife broke a spittoon over Marney's head. Marney cannot possibly leave his bed for several weeks in consequence. Mrs. Mercer is under bail for assault with intent to kill. Mercer held the fort until to-day when the office was seized by the sheriff on an execution issued for debt by a local business man. This week's issue has been discontinued. The property is considered valuable, though there will probably be appointed a receiver.

CROP RETURNS.

Official Reports from California about the Recent Heavy Rains.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—[Special.]—According to the July report of the department of agriculture just issued the area in corn has increased about 2 per cent, and its average will approximate 70 000 000 acres, an increase of nearly a million and a half acres over last year.

The department reports that the prospect for fruit is moderately good and it being the bearing year for apples, a large crop may be expected.

Edwin F. Smith, secretary of the board of agriculture, and statistical agent of the department writes concerning the great rain storm that occurred in California on the 12th of June, estimating the damage to hay to amount to 50 per cent, to the crop to wheat 15 per cent, and to barley 13. He states that the rainfall extended through the agricultural belt of the state. The damage to hay is an injury to quality, while the cost of cutting and curing is greatly increased. The dry food of the plains is not so abundant as usual owing to the lateness of the season and is nearly ruined by rain. Without rain the pasturage would have carried stock through the entire summer. Fruit is also damaged by the storm, especially cherries which were then ready for harvest.

The state agent of California reports that a few days since the fields of grain were waving with large plump heads promising a fine yield both as to quality and quantity. They are now down flat, lodged or twisted as though a whirlwind had played havoc amongst them. One loss will be in harvesting. In lifting more or less will be lost and destroyed, as the unusual weight of the heads will prove a serious drawback to that manner of harvesting. Had the rain been accompanied by a strong wind the loss would have been much greater, as a large per cent of the grain would have been lodged. As it is, fully 10 per cent of the loss will be in harvesting. The extra expense caused by the use of extra machinery in cutting and the unusual length of the cut, will increase the expense of threshing. Estimates of losses given relate to the per cent the crop will be short if there had no rain fallen, or casualty overtaken it. The variance in losses of hay is attributed to the fact that in many counties the season was so late that haying had not begun, while in others it was about over and the hay housed. In counties where rust appeared you will observe that the percentage of loss is greater. As a rule the quality of wheat is not affected, as it had almost wholly matured, hence the loss is in the extra expense in harvesting and a small loss in quantity. In some few counties, where crops were late the benefit has offset the loss. The cool weather following the storm was most beneficial, as grain not fully matured was enabled to fill well, whereas had the weather been warm the grain would have shriveled. The average loss in the state is 15 per cent below the estimated yield. The quality will be fully 20 per cent better than last year."

FAILURES.

DRY GOODS FIRMS AT ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, July 23.—The extensive dry goods house of Wear, Boogher & Co., corner of Sixth and St. Charles streets has assigned to Nathan Cole. The assets of the firm are given at about $750 000, embracing goods and merchandise for $450 000. The liabilities aggregate about $475 000. The cause of the assignment is a refusal of New York banks to make the customary advances. The firm state that if time is given they will pay in full and have a handsome surplus. About 75 per cent of the indebtedness is in New York.

DOWN THE YUKON RIVER.

Traveling Twelve Hundred Miles in Search of Gold.

S. F. Chronicle.

A Chronicle reporter called the other day upon Ed. Schieffelin who last year made a trip of some 1200 miles down the Yukon river for the purpose of prospecting for gold. Mr. Schieffelin has been a prospector from his earliest youth, first starting out in this business at the age of 14 in Oregon and for the last fifteen years has explored this entire western coast from Alaska to Mexico.

"We hired the S. L. Tiernan," said he. "She was a schooner of 125 to 150 tons burden and we left this port on June 15, 1883, and arrived at St. Michael's on July 25th. On August 5th we got into the mouth of the Yukon river. The scenery is of a most uninteresting description. On the north and west is a low range of hills, and on the south and east sides a vast swampy country covered with underbrush and moss. Where it empties into the Behring sea the river is broad having several mouths. At present the principal of these are partially known but not found and consequently it is extremely difficult to enter the river. But there is no doubt that there is a main mouth. My reasons for thinking are that the known channels are too narrow to permit the passage of the ice-pack and driftwood into the ocean. For 1000 miles this river is broad, full of sloughs, islands and bars. It then strikes a range of hills called the Ramparts. The character of the river then changes and in 130 miles it is deep with a strong current and is from three-fourths of a mile to a mile broad. Then it opens out again into a vast plain, or tundra, which lies above Fort Yukon in British possessions. The range in it enters mountainous regions and branches out into various streams."

"Do you think this river is navigable?"

"Of course it is. It is navigable for at least 1000 to 1400 miles. But the country will never amount to anything. The climate will not permit of it. The surface of the land is completely covered with moss as is this fur or will carpet. The heat of the sun can never penetrate this mossy covering, and it is only in a few places were the land is so exposed as to permit of the sun's rays light for any length of time. Then the country is so densely covered with a growth of scrub and brushwood that it effectually prevents the ground from thawing and I believe the ground is frozen continually."

"Is there anything to be realized from this country?"

"We can only expect fish and fur. The fish are splendid, the king salmon being especially fine. It beats any salmon that I have ever eaten—even the Columbia river salmon or anything along the coast. It may eventually become a mining country, but that will be when the rest of our mining country is exhausted and our miners have nowhere else to go. Difficulties encountered on such an expedition are extraordinary. There are no animals there and what is more there is no way of keeping them. A man has to pack his own supplies directly he leaves his canoe. Besides he has to provide himself with a hatchet, with which he has to cut his way through the brush. He can avoid this by taking to the tops of the mountains and following the moose trails. And then in the summer it is worst, for it rains so much during this season that a man cannot keep himself dry."

"Are there good indications of gold?"

"Oh, yes, you can find gold almost anywhere. But the only heavy gold that was found in the country up to the time we were there was discovered above in the gulches of the mountains known as the Ramparts. But the scale gold can be found on almost any of the bars in small quantities. In the Ramparts $15 a day can probably be secured, whilst on the bars scale gold is amounting to $3 or $4 per day."

"Your idea of going up there was for prospecting?"

"Certainly, that was the object of our trip. We were five in the party and we prospected from 1000 to 1200 miles along the Yukon river."

"Did you experience any hardships?"

"We had plenty of hard work cutting and wading through that river and carrying our hatchet and our supplies is no joke I can assure you. And then mind you we were all Arizona men. We had come straight from that hot country and most of us had malaria in our systems. One would have thought that we would not have been able to stand the change from the intense heat to the extreme cold. But we did. There was only light or cold in our whole party. We all came back stronger—with the exception of one who stayed up there. We were in the country eighteen months."

"Have you any idea of going there again?"

"No, sir; nor would I advise anybody to go up there—not for any purpose—unless he wants to die of starvation."

"What did you think of Lieutenant Stoney's expedition?"

"He claims to have discovered a river which empties itself into Kotzebue sound. I can hardly see how he can lay claim to such a discovery, as the presence of this river was certainly known to the white men resident up there. Nor can it be a very large stream—perhaps it is as big as the Sacramento river. I will give you the reasons for thinking it cannot be a very large stream. First because the Koyukuk river is one which heads in that same country and empties into the Yukon some 600 miles from its mouth, as does also the Colville river which runs into the Arctic. Now both of these rivers rise in the country which lies between the Yukon and the Arctic ocean and which certainly has not sufficient expanse to support any very large river."

"Are there any white men in that section of the country now?"

"There are. No less than twelve men wintered there this year. They are all prospecting. I think our action may have induced those men to make the attempt, for they are all Arizona men. They made sure we would strike something and thought they would like to be in with us. They went first to Harrisburg, and then crossed over the mountains, struck the headwaters of the Yukon, built there their boats and then came down stream to the place where we made our richest discoveries."

"Do you think they will stay there long?"

"No, I do not. I think the most of them will come down by the St. Paul, and I am pretty sure they will be disgusted with their venture."

Pool Selling as a Business.

The methods of one of the foremost pool sellers on American race tracks are described as strictly business like, and he will not employ men who have had experience as gamesters. His clerks are taken from legitimate pursuits. He prefers ex bank clerks, because they are expert in figuring, but they must come to him well recommended. No gone-wrong chaps will answer. A young man who had for no heinous fault been out of employment until he could no longer afford to be supersensitive as to what he did for a living, was advised to go to him for employment as a seller of pool tickets.

"Where were you last employed?" the gambler asked. "In the —— bank," was the reply. "Bring a certificate of honesty and capacity from the president or cashier of that bank and I will give you a job." On presentation of the requisite document the fellow was engaged to go on a season's round of the race courses. He reported at the end of the summer that he had never been held to a more rigidly circumspect standard of conduct.

PACIFIC COAST.

The Lumber Production of the Northwest Again Curtailed.

LEPROSY INCREASING IN SAN FRANCISCO.

The Strangler of his Mistress Changes his Plea—A Cholera Scare—Search for a Missing Warship—Etc.

Curtailing the Production of Lumber.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—[Special.]—It was stated in these dispatches a few days ago that a conference of mill owners was being held in this city, to agree upon a plan for curtailing the lumber production. An agreement entered into last February, putting all coast merchant mills on three quarters time has been honestly maintained, and the same parties now agree to put their mills on half time for sixty out of the next ninety days, and for the remaining third of this period they are not to run more than two-thirds of the time.

Captain A. M. Simpson said to-day that he thought the lumber business was permanently depressed. Within two years thirty new mills have been built in Oregon, Washington and northern California and all these as well as the old establishments, look to San Francisco as their chief market. Many of the new mills were built to supply the extraordinary demand occasioned by railroad building, and that demand having failed, they are now glutting the market here with their product. The San Francisco market Captain Simpson said is now as good as it has ever been, and is as good as it will likely be for the next ten years but it cannot buy all the lumber that the whole coast has to sell. Even under the present arrangement of half time the production is in excess of the demand, and at the end of ninety days another compact still further curtailing the production will likely be made.

The Lepers.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—[Special.]—A proposition was recently made to establish a leper colony at some out-of-the-way place and remove patients now in the leper hospital in this city to it is occasioning much discussion. Most of the patients are Chinese and many think that instead of providing permanent homes they should be returned to their own country. The number of lepers in the hospital is about thirty, and as the building is small some other means of disposing of them must be devised.

[Special.]—For two days past a detachment of police has been making thorough search of Chinatown in search of lepers who in many instances are concealed by their friends. About half the Chinese district has been drummed over and three poor wretches far gone with the horrible disease have been discovered. This afternoon a man was found confined in a box eight feet square, with windows, and suffering from leprosy in its most malignant form. He said that he had lived in the city ten years and that most of that time he had been employed as cook in private houses only quitting his last place when the disease had progressed till he could no longer drag himself about.

The Strangler Changes His Plea.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—Frank E. Hutchings who strangled his mistress Nettie Hutchings was brought into court again to-day at the request of Judge Wilson. He had previously condemned Hutchings ... plead not guilty and wanted to give the murder ... opportunity of withdrawing the former plea and substituting that of "Not Guilty." His ... I ... that there ... wished to withdraw ... plea of guilty. Hutchings being asked if this was his desire ... "I'd rather plead guilty, but ... I wish no ... not ... I'll accommodate them." This ... statement being accepted as satisfactory, the court ordered that all proceedings before made and entered on the records be set aside and the prisoner's plea of not guilty be recorded.

A Well Received Decision.

[Special.]—The news of Judge Deady's decision in the case of Kauffman vs. Salmon, L. Bettman and Alex Meyer has greatly strengthened Oregon credit in this city. It has been complained for several months that there was no protection for San Francisco creditors and that in cases of failure Portland creditors get in ahead and made themselves whole, allowing outsiders to suffer, and Judge Deady's decision which balked a dishonest attempt to swindle creditors here has been the subject of general satisfaction and it restores confidence to the good purposes of Oregon courts, at least.

The North "Queers" Them.

[Special.]—There exists here some foolish prejudice against shows which come by the way of the north as that formerly felt in Portland against those approaching via the Sound. Not one of the several companies coming over the Northern Pacific, and playing at Portland before arriving here, has been successful. The Bijou company has been almost a flat failure at the Baldwin and Bandman who was formerly successful here is playing to empty benches at the Grand Opera house.

Cholera Feared.

[Special.]—A good deal of nervousness is felt here respecting the cholera. Physicians say that its coming here is very likely to happen and they advise a general cleansing of streets, backyards and sewage vaults, and moderation in eating and drinking rules which might profitably be followed at all times. A number of people who expected to spend the season in Europe, will remain at home for safety against the dread disease.

Glassblowers Brought from the East.

[Special.]—Almost weekly there is an important addition to the industrial interests of this city. Twenty-six expert glassblowers, recruited at Wheeling, West Virginia, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and Bellaire, Ohio for the San Francisco and Pacific glass works, have arrived from the east and the president of the company declares that the manufacture of the finest glass will soon be under way.

An Early Closing Movement.

[Special.]—An effort is being made by clerks, supported in many instances to establish the early closing habit as it prevails in the east. A number of retail shoe stores have agreed to close at 6 o'clock, and it is expected that most other branches of the retail trade will join in the movement. All agree to close at 6 except on Saturday night when stores will be kept open till 9 o'clock.

Shipping Intelligence.

Arrived—Steamer Willamette, Holmes 78 hours from Seattle, coal to Oregon Improvement company, steamer Oregon, 58 hours from Portland, via Astoria 48 hours, passengers and merchandise, to O. R. & N. company. Sailed—Steamer Columbia, Bolles, Astoria, bark Aureola, Tacoma.

[Special.]—Miss Ella Ball of Portland is the guest of Miss Kate Schuck at San Jose.

Frank Schuck of Portland is visiting his parents and friends in San Jose.

The Humboldt Land Cases Ended.

[Special.]—On motion of the United States district attorney a nolle prosequi was entered in each case of the United States vs. G. DeGrouchy, James Miller and Daniel Thompson, the Humboldt timber land fraud cases.

Steamer News.

[Special.]—The steamer Oregon got in at 3:30 this morning, after an unusually quick and pleasant run.

A Milkmaid in Top-Boots.

Nashville American.

A wealthy farmer in Rutherford county not long since was applied to by a good looking lad for work, the boy saying that he preferred to drive a harvester or wagon or to do other light work about the farm. The applicant looked so delicate that the farmer refused the request, but gave the lad the name of a farmer in an adjoining county who wanted a boy to milk cows. The situation was sought and the lad taken on trial. The two farmers met a few days since in Nashville and got to talking about the lad. Said the employer of the boy: "He is the best milker I ever saw, and can get more milk from the cows than any one I ever had before him. He attends strictly to business and suits me first rate, but I'm afraid he is going to create a sensation yet."

Being pressed by his friend, the farmer was compelled to admit that his wife had discovered through the merest accident, that the supposed boy he had employed to milk the cows was a woman. "When I found it out I told my wife the girl would have to go as it would never do to have our neighbors know we had a woman parading around the farm in top-boots. My wife told me she didn't think anybody else would ever find it out, and it was worth while taking the chances on it, as the lad suited us so well. I liked Georgie and took my wife's advice, and I think she will be able to stay with us and wear men's clothes as long as she wants to."

She lived up in Indiana and had heard about Middle Tennessee where you could throw your hat on the ripening wheat and it would bear it up, it was so thick and strong, so she determined to come down here and get work on a farm, where she could work in the open air nearly all the year round. It was then that she determined to carry out a long cherished plan, that of assuming the garb of a man, which added so much to her independence in seeking a situation. "And you ought to see her—my milker. She's a dandy. I can tell you. She weighs about 140 pounds, is large for a woman, being about five feet eight. Her hair is black and she parts it on the side and wears it very short. She has large feet and hands and wears kip boots two sizes too long for her. She has a round face and a roguish twinkle in her large black eyes, and her coarse shirt is always kept buttoned close around her well shaped neck.

"When I tell you she wears a wide-brimmed, coarse straw hat on the back of her head and tight-fitting green jeans pants turned loosely in the top of her coarse boots, always has a kind word and a joke for everybody and is very much liked by my wife, I leave you no more to add to the picture."

Not up in the Lingo.

Boston Globe.

There are some, at least among the fair sex who are not posted in regard to politics. The writer overheard a lady say to her female partner, recently: "Well, I hope, too, that Butler will be elected president. But I don't see why they talk so much about Cleveland, Cleveland is in Ohio, and I thought the convention was to meet in Chicago."

W. S. Kenworthy, a leading greenbacker of Iowa and chairman of the convention which nominated Weaver for governor, said: "There is one good thing come out of all this. The treatment of the resolutions in the convention and the despicable conduct of the democrats in hissing Butler last night make fusion between the democrats and greenbackers impossible hereafter. We shall put up our own men henceforth, and if the democrats want to vote for them to beat the republicans all right, but we will have no more fusion to let the democrats use us to get their candidates elected." The Chicago greenbackers coincided in this statement. The election of six democratic congressmen in their state two years ago by means of fusion, they said, was all wrong and no ...

Josiah G. Abbott, chairman of the delegation, predicted Blaine's majority in Massachusetts would reach 10,000—the result of the selection of a monopolist by the democrats, instead of men like Bayard and Thurman.

A GOOD COMPARISON.

The Rev. William Roulett, a well-known Methodist clergyman, residing at Naples, draws the following amusing, but apt comparison between Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a ferret.

"A ferret when placed at the entrance of a rat hole, enters the aperture, travels along the passage, seizes upon the rat, exterminates his existence and draws the animal's defunct carcass to the light. And in like manner have I found Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge to operate upon worms, those dreadful and dangerous tormentors of children. This remedy, like the ferret, enters the aperture of the mouth, travels down the gullet, hunts round the stomach and lays hold of the worms, shakes the life out of the reptiles, sweeps clean their den, and carries their carcasses clear out of the system. This, at least, has been the effect of the Vermifuge upon my children."

VAGARIES OF THE CAMPAIGN

As an independent whim the bolters' convention in New York was not without interest. In the first place, it will be noted that nobody was allowed in this very select meeting who would not bind himself by signing an agreement not to vote for Blaine and Logan. Mr Curtis would not have the bars let down for a bolter to bolt from the bolters. The "independents" wanted no one in their convention independent enough to at any time during the campaign change his mind; they wanted no one to go into the convention for one purpose and go out of it for another, as Curtis went into and went out from the Chicago republican convention, so they fixed up the castiron paper for the men to sign. The managers of the affair asked nothing more in the way of credentials simply to sign a vow not to vote for Blaine and Logan—that was enough. No matter what opinions the signer might hold on the tariff, the Mormon question, civil service reform reduction of taxation, or whatnot. It was only necessary to sign a paper pledging the signer not to vote for Blaine and Logan. That in itself is a nice piece of independence and may be set down as one of the interesting vagaries of the campaign.

The speakers had various notions. Colonel Codman was not looking for a man of character while T W Higginson was looking for that and nothing else. President Seelye did not want a democrat, but he did want a temperance man. He thought the country all right, or near enough so, upon most questions except ing that of temperance. The platform itself declares that the issue is entirely moral and not at all political "this year." Probably some other year it may be entirely political and not at all moral. Nobody can tell what form it may assume with these hypercritical worthies. The platform also declares that it is not the intention of its framers to "leave the republican party" while they will conduct the campaign in "an independent manner with occasional conferences with the democrats to avoid possible collision." Now if that is not a beautiful layout for a set of men who want to stay in the republican party then show us something in the way of pure political cheek! Some republicans had been saying before this meeting, with a yearning to bring back their old friends, "Don't treat them harshly, we shall need them." There is no occasion to treat them harshly, nor is there any need of men who sign a pledge to vote against the party, and yet desire to be considered a part of it. Let this self righteous handful go. If they want to bore a hole in the ship and then put off from it in a small boat, let the country understand it. The hole can be plugged up with new material, and the old republican ship will ride safely into port without special concern over the deserters. There is nothing honest or manly in their course.

GLADSTONE AND THE IRISH

No part of Mr. Gladstone's public record does him more credit than his treatment of the Irish nation. He has tried during his whole public career to correct and remove the causes which alienate the Irish people from the British government. In 1874 by his Irish education act he attempted to restore cordial relations by taking away from Protestants the control of higher education in Ireland and by the disestablishment of the Irish Episcopal church he relieved the Catholics from their obligations to support an alien religion. By the land acts of 1870 and 1881 he has sought to remove another cause of alienation by changing the system of land tenure imposed upon Ireland by its English conquerors. At the present time the same laws with but few exceptions prevail in Ireland that prevail in England, but a landlord in Ireland has less rights than a landlord in England, in fact, he has less rights perhaps, than are guaranteed by law to all landlords who own property in any civilized country. By the land act a landlord is deprived of the right to set his own valuation on his property. Such a law if it could be passed in the United States would be set aside by the supreme court if the question of its constitutionality should be submitted to that tribunal. This extraordinary law allows a tenant in Ireland not only full monetary compensation for all improvements he may have made but by the payment of one or two shillings sterling he can appeal to a court of commissioners to determine what shall be the rent in future of his holding and his landlord is compelled by law to accept the decision of the commissioners. The practical effect of this law is that the decisions of the commissioners have already reduced rentals 25 per cent, and the total reductions will amount this year to nearly £3,000 000. This not only leaves for circulation among a people numbering less than 5 000 000 an increased sum of about $15,000,000 that otherwise would be drained out of the country and spent elsewhere but it practically reduces Irish taxation 53 per capita. The practical results are a lessening of demands for relief from Ireland. The correspondent of the New York Sun says

Poor people who have for years past seldom had a shilling of money in their possession now occasionally may be seen in the small shops happy in their ability to expend an occasional half sovereign. The general effect upon the temper of the people is very perceptible. The farmers and the shopkeepers who depend upon them are decidedly better off than they have been for several years past. On the other hand, the upper class storekeepers whose trade consists chiefly in supplying the nobility and landlords, complain bitterly of the dullness of trade.

The franchise bill which Mr Gladstone recently introduced in the house of commons, will, if it becomes a law, substantially place Ireland, in respect to suffrage, on the same footing with England and Scotland. These are among the most conspicuous illustrations of the liberal policy which Mr. Gladstone has steadily pursued in the face of most exasperating and disheartening opposition from representative Irishmen; and these acts inspire the hope and belief that ample and complete justice will in no distant future be accorded to Ireland. As the exponent of a statesmanship at once just and practical, Gladstone has been the best friend Ireland has had since Daniel O Connell and, measured by the humanity of his methods and the beneficent greatness of their results, he is the greatest living statesman of modern times. Even the coercion act, which he supported as an extreme measure for the suppression of crime in Ireland was made necessary by the assassination of Lord Cavendish and Mr Burke in Phoenix park and the material diminution of violence and crime in that unhappy land within the last two years attests its wisdom. His patience and equanimity have been severely tried by Mr Parnell and his coadjutors, who with the assistance of O'Donovan Rossa and the band of worthies that follow them had all bent on keeping the land they profess to love in a continual ferment thereby paralyzing industry, preventing the introduction of foreign capital, and inflicting fresh wounds upon a people who require to summon all their energies and resources to enable them to recover from the wounds of the past. It is to be hoped that the eyes of all upon whose credulity these men have been practicing will ere long be opened and then they will see that Gladstone, allowing for the extraordinary difficulties of his position has been the best friend among statesmen that Ireland has ever had.

When Louis XIV sat on the throne of France a contention arose between the tailors and a body of French women because they claimed the right to fashion the clothing of their own sex. The tailors resented this intrusion of female poachers upon their preserves, and the emperor was obliged to issue an edict in 1675 for the relief of the women, "considering that it was in the nature of things and becoming the decency and modesty of women and girls that they should be allowed to have their clothing made by persons of their own sex." The women were not yet dressmakers, however as they might not make the bodies of dresses until 1781 when they obtained exclusive permission to "undertake, cut sew, adorn and sell all sorts of dresses and clothes for women, girls and children." Even then the vindictive tailors succeeded in inserting in the statutes of the Dressmakers' Company an article 4 which prevented the women from keeping or selling any kind of cloth in quantity.

It now looks very much as though the same chairman—Barnum of Connecticut—would preside over the destinies of the democratic side of the campaign this year. He is known as Seven Mule Barnum and is remarkable for having conducted one great democratic defeat. Senator Gorman of Maryland is mentioned as a possible chairman. Gorman is a very fat Marylander who has risen from the place of page in the senate to the representative in the senate of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. He is, however just strong enough to be defeated for the place. If Mr Seven Mule Barnum is not chosen, Coffeepot Wallace of Pennsylvania will be the man. Coffeepot Wallace has been a senator and thinks he is entitled to the place for the reason that the republicans took for their chairman Mr Jones of Pennsylvania. Whoever gets it will find that it is a good respectable elevation from which to receive the curses of his party next fall.

The Kansas republicans have adopted a resolution supporting prohibition, but laid the main stress in their platform upon the railroad question. They say that the railroad companies of the state are entitled to a fair and reasonable remuneration for services performed by them but they are not authorized and should not be permitted, to establish rates for the purpose of obtaining revenue to be applied in payment of dividends on illegal and excessive issues of stock or interest upon fictitious indebtedness and pledge themselves to support such laws and measures as may be necessary to prevent and discountenance such practices.

According to our dispatches this morning General Butler's opinion of Cleveland and the methods that procured his nomination has not changed for the better since the Chicago convention was held. The general pointedly styles the democratic nominee "machine made," while Blaine is home made all wool and a yard wide. The sphinx has spoken.

The Butler forces are organizing while the general is saying nothing, and it is already clear that he will go through the campaign with a purpose of his own holding the anti monopoly and greenback forces together, as only Butler can do. While waiting for Benjamin F to say something, it may be promised that he will go straight through the anti monopoly programme.

General Butler never pretended to be modest and it was not unlike him to say that his name will figure in the history of this country. The schoolboys of the future will know of Butler when the names of some of the presidents will be lost even in history." It is clear from this that he does not expect to be president.

For two vacant government places in Washington paying $60 per month each selection has just been made from a list of 1138 applicants. Better come west young men.

There are four hundred and fifty-nine members of the bolting party. The meeting in New York brought out that much of information if nothing more.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR OREGON

The New York Sun while criticising the last river and harbor bill gives Senator Dolph the credit for the appropriation which this state received. It says

As to the question how far membership of the committee and personal solicitation influence the granting of money to one locality rather than another we need only take the testimony of those who know the most about it. Mr Frye of Maine is one member of the senate committee on commerce and Mr Dolph of Oregon is another and Mr Frye thus publicly declared in the senate how the course of legislation had been influenced by Mr Dolph's presence on that committee

"The committee on commerce having one member from the state of Oregon as persistent as earnest, as importunate a beggar for his state as I ever encountered in my life has been impelled under the influence of it to give the state of Oregon four times the increase it has given any other state in the United States."

Examining the details of the committee's action we find that Mr Frye's statement had some basis of fact. First the senate committee inserted in the house bill a new item of $25 000 for improving Coos bay, Oregon, and the senate agreed to it. Then the house bill having given $40 000 to improving Yaquina bay the senate committee increased this amount to $50 000 and the senate agreed to that. Then came a new item for improving the mouth of the Columbia river, Oregon $100 000. Then the house having appropriated $10 000 for improving the upper Columbia and Snake rivers Oregon the senate committee increased this amount to $30 000. Again the house had appropriated $5 000 for improving the Willamette river above Portland Oregon and the senate doubled that. Finally came another new item $10 000 for the Coquille river Oregon which the senate committee had inserted in the house bill. To crown the performance one of the Oregon senators found fault with the new item of $15 000 for Coos bay and demanded $30 000 which the senate yielded and then on the very next amendment which was the senate committee's increase of the house appropriation of $40,000 for Yaquina bay to $50 000 he demanded an increase of the increase to $65 000. His request was accompanied with this statement

"I shall not sit in my seat and see one portion of my state trodden down and deprived of its just and proper rights because some other part of it has been very fortunate."

However when a call was made for the commercial statistics of this port of Yaquina alleged to be in peril of being trodden under foot they turned out as follows

Revenue collected June 1 1883 one year $31 85

Coastwise arrivals from 1st of October 188 to June, 1883 14

Coastwise arrivals registered tonnage 30 tons

Accordingly the senate drew the line there, and allowed Yaquina for the sake of its prospective commerce $10 000 more than the house bill gave but not $15 000 more, as the Oregon senators desired.

It would be erroneous to attribute any unprecedented greed to this growing state. The case of Oregon is cited only because it happened to be the one in which the facts are readiest at hand for presentation a discussion of unusual length having occurred over them. It is only one illustration under a general rule. Mr Frye's statement is the senate of his experience in this business is instructive.

I never had anything to do with a river and harbor bill before and it was a curiosity to me. The senate committee undertook to cut down the house appropriations in the bill. They cut them down about $800 000. That bill was printed and in less than six hours from the time the knowledge came to be circulated as to the items so cut down by the committee on commerce almost every single item was back, and it left this bill coming from the senate committee without any practical reduction in the recommendations of the house of representatives and with an increase of over a million and a half dollars proposed by the senate committee

Seattle Herald: Some portions of the Puget Sound Shore road are badly in need of ballasting. On the other side of Stuck bridge several sets of benches in the long trestle have sunk considerably and will have to be replaced. Trains on this road are run under four distinct managements and the conductor has to register his train at six places in a run of less than forty miles.

The cougar had only a few moments before killed three sheep for Mr Roessel. Henry manifested considerable pluck in making an attack on the monster, as the cougar is known to be the most ferocious animal that prowls the Puget sound forests.

He was a man of mature years, without family and well known by old-time Puget sounders. He was given a decent burial at Bellingham. Whisky did it.

The Seattle Chronicle says: It is reported that over forty men left Whatcom last week for a gold mining location said to have been discovered near the base of Mt Baker. That gold exists hereabouts is by no means a fable says the Port Townsend Times, for on Sunday last quite a chunk was exhibited at a certain hotel in this town and by a reliable party.

On the day the late circus was at Tacoma Mr Tate's farm residence a few miles from the town was burglarized and everything in the house was taken including blankets and provisions. At Nix's heretofore mentioned only a revolver and two watches were stolen. At Mr Boatman's they had no instruments for opening the safe but took $6 from the hired man's valise which was all the money they obtained.

Victor Hugo when about to make the journey in Germany which inspired his book "The Rhine" called at the government office for his passports when the following conversation took place with the clerk: "Your name if you please?" Write"—turning to a fellow-clerk—"write out a passport for Mr. Victor Hugo, age, 33, school master."—Bow Bells.

POLITICAL OPINIONS

Gath says "Good bye, democratic party."

How do you like the nomination, Mr Storrs?

Then you wouldn't like it as a democrat?
No

John Hopkins a Bay state delegate estimated the republican bolters in his state at 000 but every two bolters he believed Blaine would gain three votes among the laboring men against Cleveland whom he recognized as weak among the democrats themselves

Judge McCafferty delegate at large said: I shall not vote for Mr Cleveland. Some people talk about a change but a change to Cleveland would be from bad to a good deal worse

Among the greenbackers that visited Butler were John Heffron and J M Potter members of the state central committee in Michigan. Mr Potter said that as a Butler man he liked the nominee in first class. It destroyed whatever hope the democracy might reasonably have had if a man was known to be controlled wholly by monopolists had not been selected. Mr Heffron said the nomination of Mr Cleveland was a defiance to all the labor organizations in the country. The knights of labor numbered 40 000 voters in Michigan and Cleveland would get no votes among them.

William Devine the silver-tongued orator of Boston said the nomination of Cleveland gave Massachusetts to the republicans by 00 majority. If General Butler ran for governor on the democratic ticket and for president on the anti monopoly and greenback ticket nothing could defeat Blaine and the General would be governor again by 15 000 majority.

The Democrats and Polygamy

Chicago Tribune

The people should not neglect to contrast the positions taken by the republican and democratic conventions in regard to polygamy. To make this contrast apparent to the naked eye we will join the two utterances

Republican Platform	Democratic Platform
Resolved That it is the duty of congress to enact such laws as shall promptly and effectively suppress the system of polygamy within our territories and divorce the political from the ecclesiastical power of the so called Mormon church and that the law so enacted should be enforced by the civil authorities if possible and by the military if need be

In other words the republican platform condemns in the most emphatic terms the shameful polygamous practices in Utah and demands the extirpation of this disgrace by any means that may be necessary, while the democratic platform has not one word to say in censure of polygamy or in favor of expunging the one blot upon American civilization.

CITY.

[illegible] WITH PROCEEDINGS.—President Harris of the Northern Pacific has had a very pleasant time since his arrival here, and he was somewhat surprised [illegible] on going to the door of Mr. O. A. [illegible] where he was stopping to find a [illegible] in the person of Deputy U. S. Marshal Frush waiting for his appearance. [illegible] Ja[illegible] knife the officer had served [illegible] the whole making a formidable bundle of legal cap, the sight of which is enough to puzzle the railroad magnate who examined these all for me. It seems that Doug[illegible] administrator for eleven Chinamen who were killed by a collision at Heron's siding about a year ago, has commenced suit in the U. S. court to recover damages in the sum of $44,000, being $4,000 for each of the different Celestials. The company has offered to pay $7,500 and the administrator [illegible] $10,000, which being refused, he sues. There is no way of ascertaining from [illegible] the market price of Chinamen, but the [illegible] that. The other summons was in the suit of Isaiah Buchanan, who sues the company [illegible] Harris as president, to recover $10,000 for injuries received while working on a [illegible] in Lincoln county, W. T. He alleges that [illegible] failure and neglect of the company to clean the platform cars on which timber was loaded he was thrown to the ground and the timber fell on him, bruising his arm and fracturing his ribs, etc. [illegible] he prays the above damages. These suits [illegible] commenced some time since, but there was no official of the company here to make service on [illegible] arrival of President Harris, which accounts for the service made on him.

[illegible] BRIDGE FOR TRANSFERS.—The work of [illegible] four large barges formerly used in connection with the work begun on the bridge below the [illegible] commenced at Weidler's mill. They [illegible] over and strengthened and will be [illegible] on which to build trestle-work for [illegible] at Kalama for the transfer of the trains [illegible] Northern Pacific railroad. The huge wharf-[illegible] at Kalama will be taken to Astoria and [illegible] for repairs and putting in ports [illegible] and she will be used as a pontoon to [illegible] opposite Kalama. The landing [illegible] will not be at Lenore but at Hunter's [illegible] below. This landing recently [illegible] the owner of the donation land claim [illegible] located. The road is in running order [illegible] boat is ready. All that now remains to complete the landings for her at Kalama [illegible], and J. J. Holland, who has charge of [illegible], expects to have them done by the middle of [illegible] when trains will at once commence [illegible] from this place to the Sound.

[illegible] FOOT RACE.—Johnson, the runner, will [illegible] Portland to-day, where he will run with [illegible] professional, a seventy five yard race [illegible] for $10,000 a side. He will go into [illegible] immediately in that city. Five thousand [illegible] for this race.—Seattle Chronicle.

[illegible] that the Chronicle man is a little off in [illegible]. The citizens of Portland have [illegible] of this kind put up on them [illegible] they are not running to see them run again [illegible] used to be. The stakes are a little too [illegible] present financial condition of things [illegible] nothing about Seattle. Several swindling [illegible] anything themselves runners did do [illegible] out of some money, but that is not [illegible] again, Johnson, who [illegible] and the eastern professional had better [illegible] change in some other game and [illegible] this community for suckers with sell [illegible].

[illegible] CAMPAIGN.—Mr. Joseph Simon [illegible] the republican state central committee [illegible] reporter that the committee [illegible] to open the presidential campaign about [illegible]. Some were in favor of commencing it [illegible] the majority thought it better to wait [illegible] season with farmers was over. It [illegible] start in hot and keep enthusiasm at a [illegible] election day. Senator Dolph, [illegible] George H. Williams, Congressman George, [illegible] Williams, Hon. Rufus Mallory and [illegible] this city have expressed willingness to [illegible] and every republican speaker in [illegible] believed to take part in the campaign, [illegible] the earliest ever known here. The [illegible] in this city Monday night. Mr. [illegible] Simon expresses the opinion that [illegible] will have 100 larger majority than [illegible] for congress last June.

[illegible] TRIAL TRIP.—Yesterday the great [illegible] boat Kalama took her trial trip, Captain [illegible] the wheel. There were aboard General [illegible] chief engineer of the Northern Pacific, [illegible] of the State of California, John [illegible] engineer of the O. R. & N. Co.'s river division, George Gore and others. The boat [illegible] from Albina to Ainsworth dock, turned [illegible] is more than her own length, went [illegible] John's and then returned here. Her [illegible] worked very well and the boat was pronounced [illegible] by all those who inspected her to be a success [illegible] for the service for which she is in[illegible]. After her return from St. Johns the boat [illegible] hours' steaming going down to [illegible].

[illegible] KEEP.—The apartments occupied [illegible] General Tolman and his force in the [illegible] of the United States court building have [illegible] newly carpeted throughout and the walls [illegible] renovated, a much needed improvement. [illegible] has been trying for three years to [illegible] done, but could not get Uncle Sam to [illegible] strings till now. The carpets are [illegible] and give the rooms a much more [illegible] pleasant appearance. The large map of [illegible] the draughting room has just had added [illegible] surveys made up to July 1 and looking [illegible] that there is but little unsurveyed land [illegible] neck of woods.

[illegible] OF RAILROAD MEN.—Last evening by [illegible] President Harris of the Northern Pacific [illegible] party, left for a trip over the Baker City [illegible] of the O. R. & N. Mr. Paul Schulze accompanied [illegible] party a portion of the distance, but proceeds [illegible] where he will meet Mr. Charles B. [illegible] president of the Northern Pacific and [illegible] him to Walla Walla, and there join [illegible] party on their return from the [illegible] valley. Messrs. Wright and Schulze [illegible] Portland Saturday. President Harris and [illegible] proceed east from Walla Walla. The [illegible] from the east is Cyrus W. Field, of [illegible] fame.

[illegible] THIEVES IN COURT.—Ah Tom and Ah O[illegible] captured with stolen chickens in their [illegible] were arraigned in the police court yesterday. [illegible] friends who secured Judge Welty to [illegible] and furnished $500 bonds to get him out. [illegible] waived examination and was held to answer. [illegible] had no friends so he waived and [illegible] jail. A few minutes later he was hauled [illegible] Justice Greene, where he was charged with [illegible] chicken from Christian Helmer and [illegible] burglary in breaking into the residence of [illegible]. Both these cases were set down for examination to-day.

[illegible] READY.—The new gas holder on Twelfth [illegible] between C and D, is rapidly approaching [illegible]. The iron walls of the holder are completed [illegible] and the iron rafters or braces to support the [illegible] put in position. The great iron pillars [illegible] the counter poises are in place on the [illegible] will not be long till the huge holder will [illegible] to receive its charge of gas. Teams are at [illegible] filling dirt and grading up the lot and the [illegible] lumber for the culvert is on the ground [illegible] to put it together.

[illegible] COMPANY ATTACHED.—The Multnomah [illegible] Company has been attached by the sheriff [illegible] sum of $40,919. It seems that John Scheurer [illegible] Coyne are the largest stockholders in the [illegible] and have been advancing money to it to [illegible] operations. These amounts have become [illegible] and it was thought best to attach the property [illegible] secure their investments. This has been [illegible] bonds given for security for the same. The [illegible] will continue to run under the auspices of [illegible] Coyne.

[illegible] FAIR.—E. W. Allen, superintendent of [illegible], fair, has located his office at No. [illegible] street, from which headquarters he will [illegible] to communicate with the public generally [illegible] that the sixth annual exhibition shall be [illegible] held in the city. Let everybody give [illegible] the hearty co-operative support that the [illegible] fair deserves and a successful fair will [illegible].

[illegible] THE MOSS.—Chief Engineer Morgan of [illegible] department, wishes to call the attention of [illegible] to the moss covered roofs, which in dry [illegible] furnish great areas of tinder and increases [illegible] liability to spreading of fires. He desires every [illegible] to have the moss from the roof of his dwelling [illegible] removed, as it soon will and becomes dangerous to the general welfare.

[illegible] Hunters.—Wm. Honeyman and L. MacGregor [illegible], W. T., bear hunting. Honeyman [illegible] killed a bear that weighed 201 pounds. [illegible] very plenty in the neighborhood of Fish [illegible] than five being seen at one time in the [illegible]. No doubt Messrs. Honeyman and MacGregor [illegible] return to the city with a number of [illegible].

[illegible] STATES.—It is reported that negotiations [illegible] pending between the Northern Pacific and Henry [illegible] for the lease of the upper stories of [illegible] building, corner Third and Morrison, for [illegible] of the company. They will be occupied [illegible] soon after the lease of the O. R. & N. [illegible] Northern Pacific is consummated.

[illegible] TRIP.—Passengers on the Lurline [illegible] will be able to enjoy nine hours on [illegible] either the North Beach, Fort Canby or [illegible]. The trip is made outside of business [illegible] starting at 9 P. M. and returning by [illegible].

CONCERT OF THE BANDS OF HOPE.—The young people belonging to the Portland Band of Hope and the Bethel Band of Hope and their friends held a musical and literary concert of more than common interest last evening in the Hall of the W. C. T. U. Over fifty members of these two organizations attired in regalia, occupied seats on the capacious platform arranged for the occasion and presented a remarkably attractive appearance. The programme, as published, was faithfully and very acceptably carried out under the direction of Mrs. M. F. Stubbs. Mrs. R. F. Rankin and Mrs. Johnson, who presided at the piano. The young people acquitted themselves with great credit, the tableaux were excellent—those representing Faith, Hope and Charity were very fine indeed in both tableau design and beautiful execution. So far as the actors were concerned the affair was a decided success and reflected great credit on the young people and their trainers. The Bethel band with their blue caps and banners and drum attracted much attention as they marched to the hall. The exhibition deserved a much larger audience. [illegible] after night and perhaps will be repeated so that the ladies may realize larger financial returns—which they deserve and greatly need in the prosecution of their work.

DEEP SEA FISHING.—In reference to this subject the Astorian appears to be misinformed when it states one company was formed last spring with most untoward results. The facts are that the company formed was that of which Mr. William Exon, a brother of John Exon of East Portland, was the prime mover, and which has not yet commenced fishing operations for the reason that it is awaiting the return of Mr. Exon from England, without which, of course, it has been impossible to proceed. The company has secured the steamer Alpha, and will be ready for business as soon as the all important article referred to is secured. Mr. Exon is expected back early next week and no untoward result is anticipated, as he is experienced at the business and the enterprise is consequently not an experiment with him.

MISSED A BEAR HUNT.—A farmer from near Beaverton came into town Monday to get Antoine or the Canyon gardens to go out with his pack of hounds to hunt a bear which was making too free with the pigs and sheep in that neighborhood. Two ardent sportsmen, Messrs. Macdonald and Curry, accepted an invitation to go along and help slaughter bruin. They collected rifles and ammunition and were to have been on hand to start at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. But they failed to wake up in time, and had the pleasure of hearing during the day that the hunt had been a success, and the bear was killed without their assistance.

THE TIVOLI.—The failure of the Victoria managers to keep up their end of the contract with the Tivoli Opera Company, has discounted plans for this week. Expecting to be gone two weeks the company have not rehearsed any new opera, and cannot repeat old ones as the costumes are lacking. The Tivoli will therefore be closed this week, during which time the building is to be renovated. It will be re-opened early next week with Manola, which will have careful rehearsal. The manager and the company deny the report that salaries have not been paid, or that there is a disagreement between management and artists.

PROMOTED.—Mr. Alfred Stillman, who has served faithfully and impartially as manager of the Portland Underwriters' Union has received an appointment to a similar position with the San Francisco union and will accept. He will probably leave for the scene of new duties early next week.

In some manner the weapon was discharged, inflicting a wound from which he died two days after.

COMPLAINT AGAINST A CHURCH BELL.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Some time since the Catholics completed a handsome church at the corner of Third and Sherman streets. Then a lady presented the church with a very fine bell, and now the people in the vicinity of the church complain that the bell is rung too often and too long and they are annoyed by it. Just how often the bell should be rung it is probable the priest in charge of the church thinks he is the proper person to decide and the man who pulls the rope doubtless thinks he has a right to ring as long as he pleases. But the public have some rights in the matter and it may be that if the church people knew that the constant clangor of their bell annoyed the people residing near they would manage to get along with a little less of it. Surely the days are past when people sever the [illegible] twenty four hours flocked in thunder rain or snow by day light twilight moonlight or torchlight, from a distance to worship at matins, prime, tierce, sext, nones, vespers and compline. But the bell above mentioned seems to be rung as if such was still the style. There may be some good reason for so frequent ringing of the bell, but there can be no earthly necessity for keeping it up so long. One or two minutes' ringing should answer all practical purposes instead of five minutes, which length of time it is frequently rung. I have no desire to interfere with anybody's religious views or duties and know that dwellers in cities must bear and forbear, for we have many things to try us. One neighbor keeps a howling dog, another a [illegible] crowing cock in the next house, a pupil on the piano drives all within hearing distracted, children at home during the holidays often prove a nuisance to the neighbors who take no interest in their noise and play, but all these are trifling compared with the widespread annoyance occasioned by too frequent and long continued ringings, even though the bell, like this, be musical.

I hope the good fathers of St. Lawrence church will endeavor to curtail those loud announcements of church service. If a necessity exists for the annoyance, I should be glad to know what it is.

QUIET.

FALSE REPORTS.

It being generally rumored about town that I have failed or [illegible] made an assignment, I would state for the benefit of the public that there is not the slightest truth or ground for any such reports. I have gained circulation and have started through the malicious envy of would-be [illegible] competitors and those who delight in spreading false reports. [illegible] ahead. I do intend to [illegible] or cause annoyance to those here the present depressed time when almost any thing is going. [illegible] being well adapted to their contemptible purpose. I am happy to state that I never felt more solid or on a firmer basis than at this present moment, and would [illegible] all such malicious reports [illegible] all claims due any creditor will be paid as they have been heretofore, promptly paid for [illegible].

Respectfully yours,

POLICE COURT.

T. J. Johnson accused of tearing up the sidewalk on First street between Yamhill and Taylor and digging a ditch for the purpose of laying pipe without a permit from the committee on streets and public property was arraigned in the police court yesterday. Upon investigation it was shown that a permit for the work had been previously obtained by some of the contractors who are excavating on property there for the purpose of rebuilding. Of this fact the street superintendent was not aware. Judge Moreland was not certain whether the first permit was sufficient [illegible] as there had been a [illegible] of work [illegible] times and took the matter under advisement until to-day.

His mother and sister were in court, the former's eyes being red with weeping. Son R. Stott appeared as counsel for the lad and asked that the trial be put over till to-day. This was granted and the lenity of the court permitted the boy to be released upon his own recognizance.

Mrs. M[illegible] the terror of Denver, was up again for being drunk and disorderly. Her clothes were in tatters and an old shawl that showed dirty concealed every portion of her figure. She claimed that she was neither drunk nor disorderly and that the officer had rescued her [illegible] in her back while effecting her arrest. That she was very drunk, however, was proved by [illegible]. Jail there was plenty to testify [illegible] sent her to thirty days in jail.

THE EAST SIDE.

A SEVERE FALL.

A lady named Carter, residing in W. Millen's addition, attracted her children to her room last evening by agonizing cries and groans. They found her in a helpless and delirious condition on the floor, and Dr. Dave Raffety was summoned. He found she had sustained severe wounds at the back of the head, which had caused concussion of the brain. As no other person was present at the time of the accident and the victim was delirious, nothing could be learned as to its nature. The position of the wounds would indicate she had fallen backwards in a corner.

HINTS ABOUT PEND D'OREILLE.

PEND D'OREILLE, July 21.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Doubtless the readers of your valuable paper may be interested to learn of a new mining district discovered in this portion of Idaho in the Kootenai mining district so called.

J. M. Seller, an old pioneer residing upon the southwestern bank of Lake Pend d'Oreille about twenty two miles east of Rathdrum and six miles south of the Northern Pacific railway on the 11th of June last while working in what he supposed to be lime rock struck rich deposits of black sulphites and silver since that time ten or twelve rich and valuable stones have been found and forty or fifty others taken but not developed sufficiently to ascertain their mineral wealth. The mines are found to extend to the water's edge from the mountain height above. The lake is sixty miles long and has an average of about two miles in width, very deep and lined on either side with high rocky precipitous mountains. Heretofore but little prospecting has been done for gold or silver deposits which no doubt lie hidden in the ribs of these old mountains awaiting the very [illegible] future prospector. Perhaps no range of mountains ever contained so great a variety of mineral deposits as has already been found in the mines just discovered—[illegible] and galena deposits being found in near proximity.

The easy access to the mines and the indications of vast deposits of mineral will doubtless bring many prospectors into this portion of the mineral belt of the mountains in northern Idaho. The Coeur d'Alene mines to [illegible] from the railroad and difficult to reach, yet many valuable quartz lodes have been located [illegible] which the mines will develop and establish a permanent camp.

This district is now embracing but fast filling up. Some twenty years ago a number of prospectors came into this part of the country and commenced prospecting. Their old prospect holes and the stumps of trees they cut are to be seen every day on the mountains along the lake. All but two were killed by the Indians who were then hostile to the whites who came to trespass on their domain. Now that the Indian has been [illegible] and civilization has made his work by the line of a great public thoroughfare through the canyons that lie between these old mountains, the white man again treads where his brother gave up his life for the love of [illegible] metals.

Lieutenant Greely.

Lieutenant Adolphus W. Greely was born in Massachusetts [illegible] years old. He is a native of Newburyport and enlisted for the war as a private. From private he was promoted through the [illegible] and first sergeant in company [illegible] of the Nineteenth Massachusetts Infantry. On the [illegible] of March 1863 he was made second lieutenant in the Eighty first U. S. Colored Infantry, and in April 1864 he was promoted to first lieutenant. He was brevetted major on the 13th of March 1865 [illegible] gallant and meritorious service. He was made captain of the Eighty first U. S. Colored Infantry on the 4th of April 1865 and on the 22d of March 1867 he was honorably mustered out. Upon his re-organization [illegible] in 1867 he was assigned to the Fifth cavalry, and became first lieutenant in 1873, which is his present rank.

A Mud Daubing Spider.

At a recent meeting of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, Dr. H. C. McCook showed what seemed to be two globular balls of earth about the size of a grape. These were the cocoons of a species of spider and were found attached by a slender thread to the under side of boards, and on preservation some had yielded tube weaving spiders of the genus Miranda, but of a species probably new. This is probably the first discovery of a spider cocoon covered entirely with mud.

Hops throughout White river, Duwamish and Stuck valleys look splendid.

H. H. [illegible] has established a [illegible] tonic [illegible] with the [illegible] at large.

They are sure to command a handsome [illegible] in the short time. [illegible] to the second [illegible] whilst you have the chance of winning [illegible] that surely regret it. Parties wishing [illegible] from the country will be located [illegible] well as if they [illegible] personally at the office.

One of the gentlemen with the party of President Harris, Mr. O. J. Stough of Chicago, is a heavy dealer in real estate, who is favorably inclined to ward this section. Mr. Stough established and built up to its present magnitude the flourishing town of Hinsdale, one of the finest suburban residence places contiguous to Chicago.

Mr. Carl Schurz is a nimble political acrobat, but it is just possible that President Hayes' secretary of the interior will feel a little awkward in performing upon a platform which denounces the fraud of [illegible].

SOME GENTLEMEN.

You have for years BLACKLINED and UNDERVALUED PURE, WHOLESOME and BETTER BAKING POWDERS than your own—the "Royal." By blacklines, alleged "Government Chemists," who do not exist, and under the garb of "absolutely pure" you have forced into unsuspecting families a powder which contains the active drug AMMONIA. Eminent physicians and chemists condemn its use in articles of daily food. You cannot longer evade the issue, AMMONIA. The public will compel you to defend its use.

DO NOT TAKE OUR WORD FOR IT.

Every housekeeper can prove the truth of our statements by placing a can of the "Royal" top down on a hot stove until heated, then remove the cover and smell "AMMONIA." This test will show that the "Royal" contains AMMONIA, that DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER does not contain Ammonia. The strength of our powder can be proven by the consumer's reliable test.

THE TEST OF THE OVEN.

In my opinion "DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER" IS SUPERIOR to the "Royal Baking Powder" IN EVERY RESPECT.

AUSTRIAN MURDERS.

Some Unnatural Crimes Recently Committed in the Empire of Hapsburg.

Vienna Special to London Times, June 27.

Two painful cases of unnatural murder have just been tried at Czernowitz. In one case a gypsy named Onufri had, from motives of professional jealousy, killed his own brother with a hammer, and was sentenced to be hanged. In the other, two daughters had strangled their aged father. The women were Iwona Berliak, aged twenty-eight, and her sister Anna, thirty, the latter being married to Andril Semko, a man eighty-four years of age. Anna was married about six years ago to Semko, but received no dowry from her parents. After the death of his wife Berliac took to drinking, and still refused to give a dowry to his daughter. Anna finally decided to kill him. She handed her sister a florin, and directed her to give it to their father that he might be tempted to drink, as she thought she might the more easily murder him if he were intoxicated. On the 9th of April last the daughters sat in a darkened room waiting for their victim. By the advice of the elder sister, Iwona tucked up her sleeves so that she might not be impeded by them in the horrible work. Late at night their old father came home drunk. The elder daughter again asked him for her dowry, and when the old man refused she attacked him, threw him to the ground and began to throttle him. She called her sister to help, and the latter sat down on the body of her father and tied his hands, thus helping her.

Both daughters have confessed the crime. The wretched women, in reply to a question of the presiding judge, said that they had never been to church, and that they did not know how to pray, which statement caused great sensation in court. They showed no sign of penitence, and sat listlessly awaiting the verdict. The jury found a verdict of "Guilty," and the tribunal passed sentence of death. The criminals still remained quite indifferent, and showed no evidence of emotion.

Brother Gardner Preaches a Sermon.

Detroit Free Press.

"I has bin wonderin' if our orthodox religiun am not a leetle queer," observed Brother Gardner as the triangle sounded and the meeting settled down to business. "As I understan' it, religiun am founded upon de word of God. Religiun binds us to respect his commandments. It obligates us to believe in de bible. It teaches us to uphold de laws of man.

"Let a brudder ob de church steal a hoss an' he am cast out as unworthy.

"Let a sister tell lies and she am cast out as unfit.

"Let a deacon put a collecksbun in his pocket an' he am looked upon as trabblin' de swift road to perdishun.

"De odder day dar was a hangin' across de ribber. A man who had nebber darkened a church doah, as any one knew of—a man who had followed a low-down biznes all his life—a man who had eber sot a bad example to de youth of the land, was hung fur murder. It was one of the coolest an' most bloodthirsty crimes of the age. De murderer was tried by an honest jury, giben ebery show for defence, an' the verdict was guilty. De sentence of de law was carried out, an' our orthodox religiun took a hand in. It sent preachers to the murderer's cell to coax him into a change of heart. It sent men dar to sing de hymns dedicated to God. It sent women dar to tell him dat he war gwine straight from the scaffold to glory.

"When dat man walked out to die he believed hisself a martyr. He talked about de support which de Lawd was giv'n him. His voice jined in singin' 'Nearer, My God, to Thee.' His life had been one unbroken career of sin. De climax was a foul murder. An' yit he was made to believe that religiun would sail him straight to heaven's pearly gate!

"My fren's, if religiun takes a murderer to de same heaven dat it does the man who has lived upright all his days, I doan' want it!

"If de divine bein' was jokin when he said, 'Thou shalt not kill,' I want to know it!

"If repentance arter de gallus has bin erected am time 'nuff, I doan' propose to pay pew rent any longer!

"If de commands of God an' de laws of man am to be made odious an' sot at defiance by de Y. M. C. A. of dis kentry, I'ze gwine to frow my bible ober de fence an' steal my pork an' 'taters fur nex' winter!

"I speak to you in de most solemn airnestness when I tell you dat dis horrible burlesque—dis absurd mockery—dis farce, played by lunatics around a murderer on de gallus am sufficient to bring our religun into vile contempt, an' to make sinners doubt dat it am anything beyond a vagary."

Are We to Become Iroquois?

Some very curious facts have been brought to light recently in a paper by M. Lucian Carr, assistant curator of the Peabody museum at Cambridge. He has been investigating the social and political condition of woman among the Huron-Iroquois Indian tribes. Wendell Phillips used to say that the North American Indian race was superior to the white in all the attributes of honor and manliness, because they were ruled by their women. Mr. Carr's paper proves it is a mistaken notion that the women among those ancient Indian tribes were slaves and beasts of burden. Among all tribes east of the Mississippi and south of the Cumberland the ultimate authority rested with the women. The descent of the chiefs was in the female line. The son of a sachem could not succeed him. It must be the son of the chief's sister or of a relative on the mother's side. Women made all the matches and ruled married couples after they were wedded. The wife had the right of divorce equally with the husband, and to her belonged the wigwam and all therein. When a separation was had the wife packed her lord off to find a new home. There was a perfect system of patriarchal rule in families, but the patriarchs were, in fact, matriarchs. Man was gloriously under woman's thumb, from his birch-bark cradle to his grave. The women held a council of their own, apart from that of the chiefs, and decided what should be done. Then the waiting chiefs and men went and executed their commands. They elected the chiefs, and war and peace were in their hands. The children belonged wholly to them. The man could not go upon the warpath without the woman's permission. As often as she pleased, however, she could send him out to take captives for slaves. Instead of having all the life and spirit worked out of her she really did not have so hard a time as our own pioneer mothers. Finally, by way of rubbing in indignities, polygamy was not allowed but occasionally a woman took unto herself several husbands. In view of all these curious and historic facts, it is borne in on the mind of the Hartford Courant to exclaim: "Men and brethren! are we to become Iroquois?"

Women's Wages.

The Rambler, a new Chicago paper, has the following to say about the wages of women workers: "I have often seen it asserted in the numerous discussions connected with what are called 'Woman's Rights,' that women are not so well paid as men for the same amount of labor. 'Equal wages for equal labor' is one of the platform cries now often heard at the conventions of 'the 'strong-minded,' and those even who oppose the woman movement acknowledge the justice of this claim. But is the charge true? I don't think it is. In literature a book written by a woman commands the same price as one written by a man, and I believe that the largest price ever paid for a MS. in this country was paid to a woman. In periodical literature it is the same. No magazine has one scale of prices for an article written by a man and another for one written by a woman, and in journalism considering the amount of 'slush and gush' many of them write, they are far higher paid. In art it is the same thing; a good picture by a female will command just as high prices as one by a male artist. In fact, Rosa Bonheur and Elizabeth Thompson, have commanded far higher prices than men for the same class of work. In music and drama the same rule obtains. In the theater there is absolute equality of the sexes, and in opera the highest-priced singers are women. If we come to another realm of art, that of clothing and decorating the person, who charges most for their work, the fashionable tailor or the fashionable modiste? Let some husband whose wife is in society, answer the question."

Bonamy Price on Education.

Bonamy Price, seeking to answer the question, "What is education?" from the Oxford point of view, says that it is the teaching of the young mind how to think, and the acquisition of knowledge. He maintains that "Greek educates by means of the most powerful force that can be brought to bear upon the young, the greatness of the minds with which they are brought in contact, the power of the writers and their works." As the instrument of education science falls into the lower rank, in his opinion, and he insists most on Dr. Arnold's method at Rugby, which was to awaken the processes of thought in his boys. In his case teacher, pupil and the great Greek lived together in one common act of thinking.

Dancers Hard to Find.

A theatrical manager about to produce a spectacular piece says that a first-rate premier danseuse is the hardest component part of the show to get. There are only a few in all Europe, and these are seldom out of an engagement. They go from one capital to another, and are as important and high priced as good singers. Then, they dread coming to America, and increase their price for the voyage. Our audiences are not to their taste. We are not demonstrative enough to suit them, and they consider us poor judges of good dancing.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

WEDNESDAY, July 23.

Sultry weather gives way to sunshine to-day. Grain is being cut in a number of valley fields, but cutting appears to be yet some days off in the eastern section. Riparia and Dayton report more rain last night, but clear weather prevails to-day all over the eastern section, the thermometer ranging from 65 to 80.

Overland receipts include 190 cs lard, 150 bbls bottled beer, 1 tank car coal oil.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours 1?2 bbls flour, 51 sks potatoes, 22,393 lbs wool, 2987 lbs hides, 55 cs eggs, 5 sks flaxseed, 106 bxs fruit, 13 pkgs butter. Also, 3260 lbs hides, from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—The wooden bark Belle of Oregon, 1100 tons, has been taken up by Meyer, Wilson & Co., for flour, wheat and salmon to Liverpool, at 45s 6d. She follows the City of Delhi, and takes on about 500 tons of wheat here before going down river. The Br ship Kirkwood reported herself to-day, after a long run from Sydney. Outside report says she has outward charter.

WHEAT—All markets are quiet and dull, Chicago falling off again and San Francisco hanging about $1 37½ for best shipping grades.

OATS—Market weak at 45@46c for good feed. There seems to be no lack of supplies.

POTATOES—Offerings liberal at old prices. Values do not promise well in the near future.

GREEN FRUIT—Prices show no quotable changes. Receipts of Oregon are increasing and crowding out California. Wasco county melons are the latest novelty. Apples sell at 75c to $2, as to quality. Plums continue to drag at any price. Tropical fruits are small, trading at old prices.

CHICKENS—Old sold at $5@5 50, with the demand fully supplied.

EGGS—Even supplies keep the price at 30c.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Oregon reached San Francisco at 1:30 P. M., and the Columbia sailed at 10:45 A. M.

The British ship Kirkwood arrived in to-day from Sydney to Balfour, Guthrie & Co. She has a cargo of coal for the gas works.

The British bark Hance, 1003 tons, will load at Glasgow for this port in Meyer, Wilson & Co.'s line.

The City of Delhi has about 200 tons of wheat in and has room engaged for salmon. She will not clear this month; so the season's shipping movement may be said to be ended.

The Belle of Oregon has been taken up to follow the Delhi, and after receiving 500 tons wheat here will go down river. She has the bulk of room engaged ahead.

The steward of the ship El Capitan was killed by the cook of the ship while at Kobe, Japan.

A vessel recently sailed from Boston for Smyrna with petroleum and rum.

The total tonnage of the merchant navy of the United Kingdom amounted to 7,196,401 tons in 1883, as against 6,908 610 tons in 1882, and 6,087,701 tons in 1876, an increase of 1,108,700 tons. In the eight years covered by these figures the tonnage of sailing vessels decreased to the amount of 673,300 tons (about 16 per cent.)

The following appears in a late issue of the Nautical Gazette: "During the last year or so there have been built three 1000-ton wooden ships in California, viz: Wild Woods, Western Shore and the Cassandra Adams." The Wildwood was built in 1871 at Port Madison and the Cassandra Adams in 1876 at Seabeck, both Puget sound ports. The Western Shore was built at Coos bay some years ago and was lost on the coast. All three made remarkable passages.

A Big Gun Explodes During Testing.

Boston Advertiser.

Since the memorable bursting of the big gun on board the United States man-of-war Princeton in February, 1848, by which the then secretary of state, the secretary of the navy, Commodore Kennon and others were killed, we have had a fortunate exemption from such serious disasters. The care taken in testing cannon limits the danger attending their explosion. The latest proof of this is shown in the views given by L'Illustration of Paris of the results of the recent bursting of the monster cannon in the battery of St. Addresse, Havre. This was the largest piece of ordnance constructed in France since 1870, and was destined for one of the metallic turrets projected for the coast defenses of the country. Experiments had been safely tried with it for a fortnight under the charge of a corps of experienced artillerists, and at last Gen. L'Avocate, chief of the ordnance bureau, came down to witness the final test. Four trials were made with the enormous gun, which measured 240 millimetres, the charge being 55 kilogrammes. It was then noticed that there was a slight defect in the bearings, the result of a flaw, which was not considered important. On the next discharge the explosion took place, the breech of the cannon being forced backward and buried in the ground to the depth of seven feet. The huge barrel of the gun shot forward like an arrow, and plunged from a height of about fifty feet upon the beach below. Fortunately no serious injury was done to the officers in charge, though one of the gunners had his face burned by the powder. A good deal of time had been consumed before a gun carriage could be constructed strong enough to stand the strain of the first experiments, and it is shrewdly suggested that the accident showed that the attention given to the supports of the cannon would have been better bestowed upon the construction of the hoops of the breech, the rupture of which caused the bursting of the monster gun.

"Look at that doggie with the long nose!" said young Millandes at the menagerie. "What's that called?" "That," replied the mother, "is an ant-eater." "An ant-eater," he repeated thoughtfully. "Then I wish they'd had him on Uncle Jack's wife, 'cause an' she didn't give me any birthday present."—Life.

A Fortune from an Accident.

Philadelphia Times.

Mr. B. F. Jones of Pittsburg, the new chairman of the republican national committee, owes his fortune to his shrewdness in taking advantage of an accident. About thirty years ago one of the workmen in the rolling mill of his firm, then Jones & Lauth, got his heavy iron tongs, weighing about fifty pounds, fast to a bar of hot iron. The bar was already in the jaws of the rapidly whirling rolls. There was no time to release the tongs, and they went through the rolls under ponderous pressure. Instead of being crushed and broken they came out at the other side flattened out of shape no more use as tongs, but a bar of iron of a high polish and changed texture. The firm made no fuss about it, but had a quiet consultation among themselves. They set to work analyzing and experimenting. The result was that instead of a discharge the workman who let the tongs go through cold got a bonus of $20,000, and instead of the little one-horse rolling mill the present immense plant was constructed. It is valued at $7,000,000. It makes cold rolled iron under an exclusive patent at an immense profit, and the long head of the lucky firm who was to-day made chairman of the republican national committee is a millionaire about ten times over. At the time the tongs got fast he kept the books and his partner looked after the mill. Mr. Lauth retired from the firm some years ago, and when the patent on the cold rolled process was reissued received $100,000 from the new firm for his share in it.

The Electric Light.

The New York Journal of Commerce gives a flattering account of the results attending the lighting of the water front of that city with electricity. The district lighted is from the foot of West Eleventh street, North river, to the foot of East Fourteenth street, East river. There are sixty-four lights on South street and fifty on West street, each of 2000 candle power. They are supplied by the United States Electric Light Company, under a contract with the city, at a cost of 70 cents each per night. Ship masters and owners of warehouses fronting on the rivers are especially delighted with the improvement, they say. The Journal of Commerce says that it has driven away the main body of river thieves, who make the vessels lying at the piers their special object of attack, and the police declare that there is a noticeable absence of the dangerous gangs that formerly made traveling along the river front at night a risky enterprise. With the many evidences that have been adduced all through the country within the last year or two of the superiority of electricity over gas as an illuminating agent, the hope will be generally expressed that it may not be long before it has entirely supplanted the latter as it is doled out at broken distances by the street lamps.

Baking Powder Kickers.

The Royal Baking Powder Company is still making enemies among those who are manufacturing and selling impure articles for leavening purposes (and their name is legion), and this fact shows that it is continuing its vigorous work in the interests of the public.

This Company set out some time ago to expose the character, and, so far as possible to break up the sale of adulterated baking powders. Having found from an examination of a number of specimens procured from grocers that they were generally of an inferior character, some devoid of all leavening properties, and many of them actually poisonous, brought the matter before the public, denounced the makers by name in the press and to the health authorities.

The affair was speedily taken up by physicians, Boards of Health, and Legislatures throughout the country; chemists were employed to make scientific tests of the various powders in the market, and the Government itself directed analyses to be made before it would purchase the supplies needed for army, navy, and Indian uses.

The result more than justified the charges so boldly made by the Royal Company. Not only were the majority of baking powders in the market found to be largely adulterated, but many of them were ascertained to contain lime, alum and other poisonous ingredients to such an extent as to render them positively unsafe for use in human food. The information spread throughout the country and created a profound sensation. As a result many of these injurious mixtures were driven out of the market, and the sale of all of them seriously interfered with.

No occurrence of recent date has been so far-reaching as this in its beneficial influence upon the public health, and the action of the Royal Baking Powder Company in the inauguration of such a warfare, and in carrying it forward with such important results, was universally commented upon and appreciated. In making the charges they did not hesitate to enter into competition with every other baking powder in the country, and it is a public satisfaction that in all the tests and analyses made the Royal Baking Powder was placed at the head of the list and declared by Boards of Health and the Government chemists, Drs. Mott and Love, to be superior to all others in strength, and absolutely pure and free from all inferior substances.

In continuing this warfare against the adulterated food, more particularly the alum, lime and otherwise impure and inferior baking powders which unscrupulous manufacturers are endeavoring to force upon the market in this locality, the Royal will undoubtedly meet with the old-time opposition and abuse. We are confident, however, that the public will appreciate, as heretofore, both the object of the "stop thief" cry and the work of the Royal Company in its attempts to protect it and to rid the market of these dangerous articles of food.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has demonstrated its power of cure for all diseases of the blood.

The Harpooner's Story.

New Bedford, June 1, 1883.

DR. J. C. AYER & Co.—Twenty years ago I was a harpooner in the North Pacific, when five others of the crew and myself were laid up with scurvy. Our bodies were bloated, gums swollen and bleeding, teeth loose, purple blotches all over us, and our breath seemed rotten. Take it by and large we were pretty badly off. All our lime-juice was accidentally destroyed, but the captain had a couple dozen bottles of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA and gave us that. We recovered on it quicker than I have ever seen men brought about by any other treatment for scurvy, and I've seen a good deal of it. Seeing no mention in your Almanac of your Sarsaparilla being good for scurvy, I thought you ought to know of this, and so send you the facts.

Respectfully yours, RALPH Y. WINGATE.

The Trooper's Experience.

Mafeteng, Basutoland (S. Africa), March 7, 1883.

DR. J. C. AYER & Co.—Gentlemen: I have much pleasure to testify to the great value of your Sarsaparilla. We have been stationed here for over two years, during which time we had to live in tents. Being under canvas for such a time brought on what is called in this country "veldt-sores." I had those sores for some time. I was advised to take your Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which made my sores disappear rapidly, and I am now quite well.

Yours truly, T. E. BOWEN,
Trooper, Cape Mounted Riflemen.
